STOP!

Yes
What? What?
You shall watch me
Because I want this break!
Match me! The entire verse.
And when I look like a russian who is about to do the splits
then it’s because the break is coming.
Okay
A russian who is about to do the splits
gets very big eyes

So this you shall remember:
First verse once again right on.
Professional judgement is referred to as an action-directed sense, reason and attentive observation, that can guide in specific actions (Krogh-Jespersen, 2009).
Teachers Professional Judgement in real teaching situations

What did we learn in school today?

Context

Experienced Teacher with at least 5 years of practice

What to look for
They have been through this mill several times. I understand if they are slightly crestfallen, but I, the clear expectations, and I think they can sense in me, because I rarely stand when I do, I hope it works.

Skill Experience Culture Relation
INTERVIEW with Bodil

Erik have difficulties working together with others so that’s why… now it is John, I… I’m not sure if I won’t force Erik to cooperation. The two of them must work together and it is about cooperation, but that it shouldn’t be right now, you know, it may well be ok once in a while, we will do it another time.

And then he is more hesitant to work with J, because if you keep on talking with him, he might be upset and angry, but if he is left alone for 10 or 15 minutes, he will cool down and become himself again.

This is not nice for J.

Do you want to work with T?

Yes.

Then you take your chair to the other side.

Perspectives

Any consequence?

Any significance?

Any awareness?

Knowledge

Experience

Reflection

Relation

Ethic

VIA University College

Teachers Professional Judgement in real teaching situations

3 juni 2015

10
Discussion

Teachers' situated, professional judgement

- Reflection
- Skill
- Knowledge
- Culture
- Experience
- Relation

ethic
Literature